

Appia Communications to Offer Managed IT and Telecom Services in Columbus

TRAVERSE CITY, Michigan — April 27, 2007 — Appia Communications, a leading provider of managed IT and telecommunications services to small and mid-sized companies and organizations, announced that it is expanding to Columbus and surrounding markets.

"Columbus is a dynamic market, and we're excited to serve the business and non-profit community there," said Victor von Schlegell, Appia's president, "We're looking forward to bringing the same benefits of IP technology to customers in the Columbus community that we have brought to customers in other U.S. markets."

Managed services offer several advantages. Rather than dealing with multiple vendors for phone, Internet access, network security, PC and server support, and other services, Appia customers deal with one company for all of these services. And using Appia's services often result in monthly cost savings of 30% or more, often with more features and functions than the customer had before moving to Appia.
