

Appia Communications Successfully Completes Integration of Voxitas | Operational, Network, and Product Integration Delivers Strong Platform to Meet Customer Needs

TRAVERSE CITY, MI - March 17, 2011 - Appia Communications, Inc., a leading provider of managed communication and network services, today announced the successful completion of the integration of the Voxitas operations, network, and products. The company is now unified under the single Appia brand at the Website www.appiaservices.com.

"I am impressed at how quickly and efficiently our team folded in Voxitas' SIP Trunking and MPLS businesses," said Victor von Schlegell, Appia's president. "Our primary focus remains delivering reliable and affordable managed services to our customers. Through this integration we have made the whole better than the sum of its parts."

The milestones completed include:

- All customers are supported by a 24x7x365 network operations center
- Appia's nationwide network is now under a single, world-class MPLS management infrastructure
- All Appia services are available nationwide from all Appia network locations
- Deploying customer data center and cloud computing space at Appia's St. Louis network operations center

"In addition, we completed the combination of our channel and wholesale sales teams," von Schlegell continued. "This move nearly doubled the number of Appia channel partners and expanded our wholesale offering to include all of our products."
