

Appia Communications Resets Pricing Data Center Services | New rates bring cloud infrastructure service within reach for all customers

ST. LOUIS, MO - May 3, 2012 - Appia Communications, a leading provider of managed communications and network services, today announced the significant reduction in pricing for data center services in its St. Louis facility.

Customers interested in moving their IT infrastructure to the cloud can purchase services such as:

- A full cabinet with Internet and power for as low as $449 per month
- A single rack unit with Internet and power for as low as $69 per month

"For customers who need a cabinet, a half-cabinet, or just room for one or two servers, this pricing can't be beaten, in a first-class data center facility," announced Victor von Schlegell, president of Appia Communications.

"Our facility is perfect for customers looking for more space, facing rising cooling and electrical costs, or that need a lot of bandwidth," said Matt Siemens, vice president of marketing at Appia.
