

Appia Communications Delivers Phone System Disaster Recovery | Buy SIP trunking from Appia and then collocate your PBX for as low as $59 per month

TRAVERSE CITY, MI - June 19, 2012 - Appia Communications, a leading provider of managed communications and network services, today announced a whole new way for customers to deploy IP-PBXs. They can now collocate their primary or back-up PBXs in the Appia data center when they purchase Appia's SIP trunking services.

"Customers usually locate their PBXs at their place of business. So when they lose connectivity to the office, they also lose phone services," said Victor von Schlegell, president of Appia Communications.

"With this new service, customers can collocate their systems in a carrier-grade facility, with all the redundancy you would expect," von Schlegell continued. "This is a perfect, extremely cost-effective solution for customers who want their communications to be safe and secure."

The low monthly price of $59 includes one rack unit of space, power, and Internet access for SIP services.
